Ontario Anti-Jesuits Listening to Reason.
OTTAWA, 14.—At the anti-Jesuit meeting at Pakenham, Mr. Jamieson, M. P., the county member, spoke for over an hour, defending and justifying the action of the Government and announcing that had he been in the House he would have voted with the majority. He said that if he wished to trim for popular favor he would be found casting in his lot with those who were keeping up the agitation, but he strongly deprecated such a course. Public men in times of great popular excitement should have cool heads and endeavor to guide the people wisely. He thought that after the excitement had passed away it would be found that Sir John Macdonald's wisdom and foresight would become manifest, as often had been done before. Mr. Jamieson's explanation seemed to give general satisfaction for at the close a vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to him for his presence and address. Resolutions were passed protesting against the passage of the two obnoxious enactments of the Quebec Legislature and commending the course of the thirteen members, but no resolution was attempted censuring the Government or the majority of the House who voted with them.

The Chronicle says: "The Johnstown and Seattle disasters would appear to show that the rapidity with which our American cousins manage engineering and building operations is not always conducive to the safety of life and property when the elements attack them violently."

Seventy-Two People Killed.
DUBLIN, 12.—Seventy-two people and children were killed in a railway disaster yesterday. There is scarcely a family in Armagh that had not a member on the ill-fated train, and the excitement in that city is intense. The embankment from which the coaches were hurled by a collision is 70 feet high and both the engine and cars were almost ground to powder by the shock of the collision and the terrible plunge from the embankment which followed. An excursion party left Armagh in two trains. The accident occurred at a point where the trains had to ascend a grade on the bank 50 feet high. The first train ascended the grade without trouble, the second section attempted to ascend, but the weight of the train proved too great for the engine. Several cars were detached and allowed to run back towards the level track, but before they reached it they came in collision with an ordinary train from Armagh, which was proceeding at a good rate of speed. The excursion cars were completely wrecked. The scene which ensued was heartrending. Hosts of volunteers were soon at hand and the dead and wounded were taken from the wreck and carried down the bank, medical aid was called for and a special train from Belfast brought twenty surgeons from that city. The disaster is unparalleled in the railroad history of the United Kingdom. Twelve children were killed. It was the annual Methodist excursion. Several officials were arrested in connection with the disaster.

Risties at the same time communicating to the latter a warning that he must comply with them without hesitation.

A Sensation at Vienna.
VIENNA, 15.—A sensation was caused here by the announcement that the Nouvelle Revue will shortly publish a letter purporting to be from the Prince of Wales to King Leopold, in which the Prince states that Emperor William's body is seriously attacked by disease. He cannot get any sleep, save what drugs procure for him. He also suffers with intense headaches, compelling him to resort to morphine. The letter continues: "I shall never forgive or forget his treatment of me on the occasion of the funeral of his father."

Boulangists Arrested.
PARIS, 12.—The Government has issued an order to the police to prevent the proposed meeting of Boulangists yesterday at Bagouleme, in the Department of Charante, and where some people assembled to attend the meeting they found a cordon of soldiers in possession of the hall. M. De-roville, president of the Boulangist organization, known as the Patriotic League and Deputies Laisant, Laguerre and Richard, all of whom were announced to speak at the meeting, protested so violently at the action of the police that they were arrested. Scores of their sympathizers were also arrested, and the populace is in a ferment. Troops have been confined to their barracks.

Vive Boulanger.
PARIS, 13.—There was an exciting meeting of the Chamber of Deputies today, when M. Seguin presented his interpolation on the subject of the action of the Angoleme authorities in suppressing the Boulangist meeting on Sunday. M. Seguin in his speech was very bitter in his denunciations of the Government. He said that the violence of the government officials had aroused a strong feeling among the masses and that the people were wrought up to such a pitch of indignation that they refuse to be terrorized. He warned the government that their tyrannical measures would prove unavailing and that the people would persist in exercising their undoubted rights as free men, despite the attempts to derive them of their liberties.

An American Proposed for the papal Chair.
NEW YORK, 15.—A despatch from Rome to the Times says all Europe is now conjecturing the question, who will be the next pope? The death of Leo XIII., would create a stir, which would attract the attention of Americans more than any event that has occurred within the memory of the present generation. It is more than possible that European jealousies, no less than the present situation of the Vatican, would dictate the election of the American Cardinal Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, to the chair of Peter. The Pope is not very strong, and reliable reports state that his wily frame cannot much longer endure the strain of his age and cares.

OUR FUTURE MARKET.

Most, if not all the gentlemen from Ontario, who have visited our town and surrounding country within the past few days have expressed themselves as being perfectly satisfied with the climate, the soil, the crops and general resources of the district. Some of them, however, appear to have lingering doubts as to the future market for the large amount of grain and dairy products which there soon will be seeking an outlet. None of these gentlemen will deny the truth of the old saying, that "Experience is the best teacher." Now, if they will go back with us for a few years and reflect on what they know was the case in Ontario, not when their cities were in their very infancy as Calgary is, but to a period long after Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton and London had become cities. At the city of St. Catharines, then a good town, we have seen the farmers bring point butter to market and sell it for 10c per pound; pork at 4c; beef 3½c; mutton 4c; turkeys by the load 6½c to 12½c per bushel; potatoes 20c; oats 20c; wheat 75c; cheese 7c; full apples 12½c; winter apples 25c; eggs 6½c, and other things in proportion. The other cities mentioned, except Toronto, not varying much from these figures. Now, of course, it is different there, because the population of the cities through the establishment of manufactures have increased and made home markets, while the increased facilities for shipping by rail and steamship to Britain, has brought up prices to nearer the English value. Let us contrast the position in Ontario as it was and now is with the situation about Calgary. The produce placed on the market by the Ontario farmer is raised upon land which if the labor bestowed upon it in clearing the forest, pulling the stumps or removing the stones, was calculated at average laborers' wages, has cost at least $100 per acre, besides a lifetime having been spent in bringing it to its present state of productiveness. In this district as good land as any in Ontario can be got free, by expending less labor on it than what a man will naturally do, if he intends to make a home of it. The entire outlay will not exceed $10 per acre instead of $100, to bring this land into perfect cultivation, while five years instead of twenty five will suffice for the work.

At present the Alberta farmer gets 25c for butter; 25c for eggs; one cent a pound for potatoes; $9.00 a ton for wild hay, loose, for that it is baled; 13 to 15c a pound for cheese; 40c for oats; $1.25 for wheat and 8c by the carcass for beef, pork and mutton. These prices may not continue, probably will not; but with the tremendous development of mines being inaugurated at our very door in the mountains, with the rapidly growing export cities of British Columbia already looking in on our meat, butter, cheese and ready to take our flour as good as we get under our noses. The markets on the Pacific Ocean now opened to us by the C. P. steamers, it is difficult to imagine a place more admirably situated for marketing its products than the district of Alberta. Why, it is a patent fact that butter has been sent in large quantities from Dublin, Ireland, to Japan, through the port of Calgary.

PORK-RAISING.

Why don't we raise hogs in Alberta is a question which we would like some of our farmers to answer? It is not because of our Jewish prohibitions, because as a people we go for pork, ham, pork shoulder, pork sausage, pork fat with all the audacity of any other gentiles in any other part of the world and yet we do not raise any pork worth speaking of, but are constantly sending very large sums of money out of the district to purchase hams and bacon from Thomas Lawry or F. W. Fearman, of Hamilton, and many others, made from pork raised where it cost twice as much as it would cost to raise the pork in Alberta, and brought here at a cost for freight equal to what the first cost of the pork would be, if raised in this country. In addition to the cured pork and pork products brought from the older provinces, the enterprising firm of Calgary meat dealers, Messrs. Hull, Truance & Co., are every little while bringing in a carload of live fat hogs from Brandon, Manitoba, to supply their fresh meat trade. If Brandon district can raise and ship fat hogs 700 miles to supply our tables with spare rib, pork chops etc., Alberta can most assuredly, with its much longer summers, milder winters and richer grasses, equally good roots and superior coarse grains, raise pork cheaper and as good as Manitoba can do it. The Berkshire has been known to live and grow fat on native grass during the summer in Manitoba and live on cured grass during the winter. Then there is the English Grass Pig, which is a fine, clean bodied, plump porker, and will live and fatten on the grasses of the East, which are not nearly so nutritious as the Bunch and Buffalo grasses of this country.

Let us take a leaf out of the book of the early settlers of Ohio, Missouri, and Illinois etc. In those States they raised large quantities of corn, because it was easily raised, and not because it is any better for fattening hogs than our coarse grains. Hog raising was about the first live stock they went into. There were several reasons for this which will apply here. First, there is no other domestic animal which is as prolific as the pig; next, there is no other animal which matures and is ready for use at as early an age as the pig. By experimenting they found that seven pounds of corn with what feed the hog got on the field, would produce one pound of pork, being far from market, it was an immense advantage to raise pork. The one pound of pork being worth much more than the seven pounds of corn would be in New York. In one year pork gave good returns, while cattle and horses took an average of four years to bring in returns. The advantage to the Alberta farmer in raising hogs would be two-fold as compared with the Illinois farmer in as much as they have a market at their own doors, saving all the trouble and often loss of hogs in shipping a long distance, as well as being in a position to get twice as high a price for the pork, compared to the cost, as the Illinois man did. Then as to the continuance of the market. No reasonable man will doubt that the mining of coal, silver and lead in the Mountains and in this district will increase at a ratio which will make a market for all the pork that can be raised for many years to come. The development of pork raising would necessitate having a pork curing establishment at Calgary. Well, so there should be.

AN INCIDENT OF THE SAMOA STORM.

It takes a long time to receive authentic information from the Pacific Islands and it has taken a long time to receive from Samoa the exact facts regarding the terrible hurricane which took place in Apia Bay a couple of months ago, wrecking the German and American fleets. It will be remembered that the first despatches received mentioned that H.M.S. Calliope, the only British war vessel in the Bay, and the only man-of-war which escaped, in beating her way out of the storm-tossed bay to the open sea and safety was cheered by the men of the American ship Trenton, which in spite of everything was being driven ashore to destruction. The incident was commented upon as another proof that blood is thicker than water and that genuine Americans look upon Britishers as members of the same family, after all. It was supposed, that owing to the vagueness of the despatches, that the American cheer was merely a manly tribute to the superior seamanship of the crew of the Calliope, a generous outburst from generous hearts, an expression of satisfaction from the doomed that a more fortunate crew of fellow beings could successfully combat the elements which were in spite of their own efforts hurrying them and their ship to their doom.

The complete reports, however, only recently to hand show that that historical cheer from the Trenton's deck was an acknowledgement of as brilliant a piece of gallantry as adorns even the annals of the Royal Navy. It appears that the Calliope slipped her cables and adopted the bold alternative of making for the sea when she did for the purpose of preventing the destruction of the hapless Trenton, on her formidable iron ram. The Trenton was drifting on to the sharp prow of the English ship and appeared doomed to destruction. Had such a catastrophe taken place not a life on the American ship could have been saved. At this critical moment the British captain ordered the cables to be dropped and staked the safety of his ship and the safety of all on board on the staunchness of the Calliope and the discipline of her crew. For some minutes the wind and waves were too much for the motive power of the iron clad and she began to drift. The solidity of British workmanship and the bull dog like tenacity of British character, however, prevailed and slowly and surely the ship gained steageway and made for the open sea. A path was cleared for the hapless American ship to the sandy beach where she was cast ashore, most of her crew being saved, while the British ship by assuming the great risk was making a scarcely hoped for course to a place of greater safety. It was as the Calliope passed the Trenton that she was greeted with that cheer which went round the world and which was in reality a recognition of the generous gallantry of the captain of the Calliope.

The incident is one well calculated to stir to its depths the heart of every true Briton, as proving that the navy is still imbued with that spirit of gallantry which has kept the British flag in the van as long as there has been a British flag to carry. So long as such sentiments to be the case so long will Great Britain rule the waves and so long will the prophesies about disruptions of the British Empire appear absurd to the student of history.

In this hum-drum business age we need an incident such as that in Apia Bay now and again to remind us that heroism is not buried in the past and to strengthen our confidence in the future of our Empire.

THE EASTERN PANATICAL GRESADE.

An eastern contemporary commenting on the ill-effects of such unpatriotic agitations, as the anti-Jesuit crusade enquires "Will the confederation collapse?" In a lengthy article our contemporary proceeds to show that a disruption of the Dominion as originated in 1867 would mean the ruin of Canada.

These continual agitations in favour of some section or faction are certainly calculated to try the constitution, but if the mass of Canadians are true to their country and to themselves there is nothing to fear. What have any of these past agitations accomplished but a firmer consolidation of Canada and a great and inestimable increase of national sentiment. The Canadian Confederation had scarcely been inaugurated before it was threatened with the secession of Nova Scotia. The Red River rebellion marked the acquisition of Manitoba. A fight for Provincial rights and in opposition to the application of the Federal veto kept Ontario in hot water for years. British Columbia threatened to secede because the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was necessarily delayed; and, later, we have had the province of Quebec convulsed because a Frenchman was hazarded for promoting a second rebellion in the Northwest. Through all these perils Canada has passed and remains a united nation of either of them remains.

We sincerely think that the present agitation in Ontario is likely to lead to a disruption of the Dominion, although it must be admitted that an agitation based upon religious prejudice is very difficult to keep within bounds and is generally to be reprobated. The Montreal Star of a recent date ably discussed the duty of the hour for patriotic Canadians. It said:—

"It is incumbent on all who place the prosperity of their country and its glorious future above all other considerations to meet with courage and resolution all attempts to divide the people of Canada on the basis of race and religion. It is above all the duty of young Canada to show that every public movement is made to contribute to the peace, the welfare, the unity and the progress of our stalwart confederation. The mixture of races and creeds call for toleration all round; the political divisions of the country into great and small provinces demands moderation and respect for constitutional obligations. The overriding of the constitutional rights of a single province must arouse suspicion in the weaker members of the Confederation, while all assault upon the guarantees conveyed by Imperial legislation must lead to the existence of a state of things in Canada scarcely less dangerous than civil war. We all know that agitations and agitators soon pass from the original bound set for them, and in the case of the present discomfited agitation it is already evident that what commenced with a protest against the constitutional right of a legislature to pass a certain measure has developed into a pronounced war upon the religion and the language of nearly one half of the people of Canada. If this agitation is to continue for years, if it could with any show of reason be predicted that it would be successful, we could see the political bonds of the Confederation dissolved, the industries of the country hopelessly paralyzed, and commercial bankruptcy the order of the day. Of some prominent persons and forces in the agitation it may be safely alleged that their object can only be obtained by the sword, the rifle and the cannon, and that under such guidance this peaceful, happy country of ours must eventually be deluged with blood."

We have no doubt that the anti-Jesuit agitation will be dead and buried long before it reaches a point to involve the people in bloodshed. It is simply being maintained by the Grit party in Ontario to do duty at the next elections; but so apparent is the humbug of the thing becoming that it will probably collapse long before polling day is announced. Still this sort of agitation should be frowned down for while it is in existence it does great harm by directing public attention from matters which in the public interest deserve the undivided attention of the public. Fortunately, in the Northwest this agitation has made no foothold and it is to be hoped that no factional religious agitation ever will. We should profit by the experience of the east.

STOCK.

Bred from the Best.

Don't take it for granted that because a horse has come of good stock that he must also be good. Look out for the horse to breed from. Don't breed from a horse with weak knees, light bones, crooked hocks, bad feet ill proportioned body or other defects, when you can get one that is more perfect. Look out for the horse that has to be juggled by the curb chain to make him keep up his head, or continually kept in motion to hide some weakness in his limbs. Farmers, use the best horses, even though they be the highest priced, as they ought to be. You may come across a well bred horse which in some particular is very pleasing to the eye. He is cheaper than the average price; probably sent to Dakota, where eastern importers think the farmers are not so particular in observing blemishes. Thus they may send out faulty horses, taking as their compensation a portion of the service fees annually until paid for. It is a fact that third class importers do this while a first class importer, who only handles first class horses, could not afford to do any such thing. Farmers take warning, the cheapest is never the best.—D. A. CORNWICK, in Watertown Journal-Democrat.

Maturing Stock.

Throughout the west there is more or less a pest of flies in summer. In the prairie regions there are the greenheads, and near timber the deer-flies, both veritable bloodsuckers. The war-b fly—the large black warble flies that deposit their eggs on the backs of cattle and horses—are also not only annoying at the time of oviposition, but painful and debilitating as the larva grows. The bot-flies, that deposit their eggs on the limbs and on the breasts of horses, occasion much annoyance to the stock.

The general means of avoidance of all these disabilities is a dark place to which the animals may retire when not feeding, and especially that animals during fly time be allowed to pasture night and morning, and, in fact, all night when possible. Where the flies are very bad, we advise that stock be driven to dark stables from 12 a. m. until 4 p. m., even at the expense of giving them out forage during these hours. Another thing the careful feeder will do well to observe is to pay strict attention that stock have access to water at all times, or at least, stated intervals, so that they may never get thirsty. Animals are very much like men in the matter of drinking. Some days they seem to require very little; other days they take what may seem an inordinate quantity. Nevertheless, when required, the water should be accessible.—EX.

Disbarring Cattle.

Below will be found some interesting facts regarding the disbarring of cattle in Scotland, which we take from the Banffshire Journal.

"The Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals are to be congratulated on the victory which they won last week in the case of Ford vs. Wiley. The practice of disbarring cattle, fortunately, has for many years been almost unknown in England. Recently, however, it has been introduced again into Norfolk, and has been carried on in a part of that country to a considerable extent for the last three or four years. To test its legality the society in November of last year prosecuted a farmer before the county magistrates, able interest was felt as to whether they would follow recent decisions, and find for the farmer on the ground that he had no cruel intention, but acted in the honest belief that what he was doing was for the good of the cattle themselves and for his own benefit, or whether they would overrule them and strike out a new line. They stated that they should adopt the latter course and declare the practice illegal, but the reasons for their judgment were reserved till next sittings. It is to be hoped that these will finally explode the superstitious doctrine that ignorance and a desire to benefit one's own pocket are sufficient justification for cruelty."

Sixteen carloads numbering about 500 head of cattle, were arrived in Calgary from Omaha this morning. They are part of the Montana contract of 5,000 for J. J. Barter, of the Barter Ranch. They have been unloaded at the stock yards and will be driven out to the ranch at once.

Black-Leg in Young Stock.

Among the blood diseases from which animals suffer the affection known as black-leg, which is common to calves in all districts, and is occasionally observed to attack sheep, is one of the most fatal. Recovery is a rare occurrence, and there is always a doubt as to the truth of a reported cure, because of the well known deadly character of the affection, and the fact that no form of treatment has been found to influence the result. Now and then someone tries some mixture of drugs which would have killed a healthy calf at once, and reports that, after lying between life and death for some hours, the animal got up and began to feed. Such cases are of no practical value, as they are never reported by experts, who would be capable of appreciating all the conditions; and in no instance which we have heard of has the evidence of the nature of the disease been sufficient to justify any definite conclusion.

Black-leg has been carefully investigated by scientists in various parts of Europe, but it cannot be said that our knowledge of its pathology, causes and curative treatment has been much advanced. Something has been done in the way of prevention, but even on that point the experiments in this country at least, have not been carried on far enough to enable us to say that a certain mode of inoculation will secure the animal from an attack of the disease. The great difficulty which meets every attempt to determine the value of protective measures is the uncertainty as to the course of the disease under ordinary circumstances. It is known that particular pastures are dangerous, and that, if a number of calves fed on them a proportion will be attacked and will die. Sometimes the percentage is very low, and at others very high; but while all the calves are exposed to the same conditions, the majority of them remain unaffected. Consequently, the actual results of inoculation or other preventive means can only be determined by a series of experiments carefully arranged and extended over a considerable time and including a large area of ground which is known to be dangerous.

"Symptomatic anthrax" is the technical name by which black-leg is distinguished in France; and the title suggests a relationship to anthrax or septic fever, from which, however, black-leg differs in important points; indeed, the two diseases are only associated in the comparatively particulars of the suddenness and fatal character of the attack, and the dark, sometimes black, color of the parts in which the effects of the disorder are most marked.

Anthrax is recognized by its special organism, which has very distinct characteristics and a life history which has been completely illustrated.

In black-leg no distinctive rods are found in the blood, or in the organs and tissues of the body generally, as in anthrax but only in the diseased part. There is a red which is considered by the French authorities to be the microbe of black-leg in the fluid which flows or may be pressed from the dark colored muscular tissue of the hind quarter generally, that being the part in which the effects of the disorder are most commonly seen.

The localization of the disease to a portion of the limb, and the different positions of the microbes, are the principal distinctions between anthrax and symptomatic anthrax or black-leg. In the general circulation and in support of their case a large number of scientific and professional witnesses were called. The evidence of these was unanimous, and left no doubt of the extreme torture inflicted on the animals by the operation, which consists in sawing off the horns close to the head with a common saw. The witnesses on the other side were all farmers of the neighborhood, and they maintained that if the beasts were prevented from going each other, a larger number could be got into the cattle yards. It also appeared that their value was substantially enhanced, a higher price being given by the dealers of polled cattle. In the result the magistrates declined to convict, but they stated a case for the opinion of the high court. This has recently been heard by the lord chief circumstances under which they occur the two affections are closely associated. Anthrax and black-leg occur in certain localities from time to time. Of the two diseases, black-leg is the most persistent. Some men have the peculiar property of causing the disease in a varying proportion of the animals which are fed on them every year, and the same is true in respect of anthrax. In other cases outbreaks occur at intervals, and often when the disease is looked for it does not appear. Exactly the same may be said of anthrax.

Respecting the contagious nature of anthrax and black-leg, it may be stated as a fact, which has been demonstrated over and over again by experiment, that both diseases are inoculable with perfect certainty, but neither spreads from a centre, just as Justice Hawkins, and consider like others of the true contagious maladies—i.e., it does not follow that, because your neighbor has on his farm an outbreak of anthrax or black-leg, your stock runs any appreciable risk, as they certainly would if the disease were foot and mouth disease or swine fever.

Symptoms of Black-Leg.—Farmers who live in districts where black-leg is common have no difficulty in distinguishing the disease. The first signs of illness—a dull aspect, desire to escape from the herd and seek a secluded place under a hedge or in a ditch—are accepted as warnings of an approaching attack, and soon afterwards the appearance of swelling in the hind quarter, or the fore limb in rarer cases, with the peculiar crackling sensation, rather than sound, which is caused by pressure on the swollen part, leaves no room for doubt as to the nature of the disease.

A fatal termination is expected to follow closely on the development of the symptoms above described, but in many cases no signs of disturbance are detected. A calf is left in apparent good health, and in an hour or two afterwards is found dead in a corner of the field.

Treatment of black-leg is seldom attempted, and the important point is to select from among the several preventive measures which are recommended, setons in the dewlap have long been a favorite means of prevention. Their action is counter-irritant, is quick and continuous, but no explanation of their influence in preventing black-leg has been offered. As substitutes for setons, counter-irritants to the tip of the tail have been recommended. A mixture of turpentine and cayenne pepper is sometimes used. The tail is slit to the end, and then immersed in the mixture; and it is claimed for this system that calves which have been treated in the manner described are protected from black-leg. Food mixed with about 5 per cent. of nitrate of potash appears to be to some extent preservative. Inoculation with the virus of the disease, modified by cultivation, has been employed on the continent with considerable success. In this country it has not been found so effective. The material employed is generally the muscle juice of the diseased part, dried at a certain temperature, powdered and then further cultivated at fixed temperatures. Or the muscle juice is mixed with ten times the quantity of water, and a few drops are injected into the blood. Both plans of inoculation must be done by an expert, and the latter mode of operation is not free from risk, even when a skilled veterinary performs it.

The ordinary remedies of the seton in the dewlap and the use of medicated food—as 2 oz. of meal or oilcake per day, containing 10 grs. of nitre—are certainly worth a trial, and are not in any way likely to do any harm.—Field.

GENERAL.

Eli Perkins.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

An anxious inquirer stepped into the HERALD office last evening to get some information about "Eli" Perkins before he would invest one hundred cents, currency of the United States of America in a chance to sit for one hour and fifty minutes amongst the elite of Calgary and listen to one that he did not know much about, crack jokes or sit amongst the boys and help them to whistle or yell out the only French word they ever spoke "encore" whenever the orator stopped to take a chess of tobacco, for fifty cents. Well who is Eli Perkins anyway and was he afflicted with that terrible name when he was born. I should think when he wakes up at night if he has any respect for himself he would try to kick himself loose from such an ugly cognomen. But he makes a pretty good picture doesn't he? A good deal like ex-Mayor Shelton I think. Yes, a very good picture indeed. The one in the window resembles him very much as we saw him when we interviewed him last time, and we might as well tell you that his name is not Perkins at all but Landon. Melville David Landon. He was a boy once and was born at home as all respectable boys are. He took a notion to get away from the roof and a raw hide of his father. He had heard about Barnum ploughing out potatoes in the tall with elephants, and he wanted to see the operation. So he started off in such a hurry that he forgot to take his name with him, and couldn't mind what it was till he saw an advertisement in the papers for a missing young man named Landon, who would be easily distinguished by his proclivity for telling yarns. In the meantime though he had forgotten his own name, he partially collected his thoughts and remembered about a Deacon in the church his father attended, who was also Melville's Sunday School teacher and passed for a respectable man, whose name was Eli Perkins. The Deacon was good on horse trading and a great man for getting up church socials and camp meetings, so our young hero adopted the deacon's name thinking that it would not be a bad one to get through the world with. Well but is he not called the great American Lion, yes, some people call him American, but it isn't right. They are not lies which he tells, they are just parables to illustrate facts, you know, "Smilies," as Josh Billings would say. We would call him a great humorist, a punnist, so to speak. Suppose that it is so, what is he going to accomplish by such harangues as they say he gets off? Oh! His sole object is to amuse the people. He is a philanthropist. It is all very fine to tell us about philanthropy; but I don't see it, at one dollar for one hour and fifty nine minutes, even if it be brilliant wit and original humor, and have the elite sitting all around one. That is just where the philanthropy comes in. "Eli" has a world-wide reputation. The tickets for his lectures are always sold before "Eli" gets there." He draws as big a house as an Ontario Farmer's Excursion, Yes and pockets the pile. No, no, he don't. You see the Calgary Institute is a kind of democratic literary concern, reading room and library for everybody and in order to get money from the people to help it along and give the people the worth of their money too, President Shelton, who sits on the judge's bench with his honor Justice Rouleau, as associate judge and Secretary Chambers, decided, as the lawyer would say, by "Judge in Chambers," to engage "Eli" to lecture, pay him $75 and devote the profits towards a library for the "Institute." Oh yes, I see now. Well, it is just 6:27 1/2, I must hurry down to Linton's and secure three seats for Sal and I, so we will have lots of room to laugh. "Get there Eli," we remarked, and he got.

Revelstoke Smelting Works.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Dr. Orton, of Winnipeg, promoter of the Revelstoke Smelting Works, gave the HERALD a call today. We are pleased to note that the company is in a healthy condition and going ahead vigorously. They have 12 distinct leads of ore, 1 of the interest belongs to an English Co., called the Kootenay Trading and Smelting Co., (limited,) of London, Eng., the capital is $200,000. The source of supply of silver ore contained in iron pyrites carrying gold are the Illicilwaet mines close to the C. P. R., which are numerous and carry an average of from $40 to $100 of silver in galena. Arrow Lake mines contiguous to navigation on the Columbia River, and the Toad Mountain and Kootenay Lake districts near the border, where many American capitalists are at present engaged in developing the rich mineral resources of that district which has already created a large trade with the United States to the South. Before this can be obtained at Revelstoke a short line of railway 24 miles long is required to connect the navigable waters of the Columbia River and Kootenay Lake. Responsible men in that district are willing to guarantee an output of 120 tons per day from the time the road would be ready to carry it, with a continual increase. The profit from carrying which alone is estimated will in three years pay the whole cost of constructing this line. The C.P.R. would at once commence construction of this line did the Provincial Government of British Columbia not impose a taxation which is practically prohibitory on railway construction, as it is said they have done with the C. P. R. That company were willing to pay on a similar basis as is imposed in other provinces of the Dominion. Mr. Van Horne was interviewed by Dr. Orton the other day and expressed himself as very favorable to building this short line. It seems very difficult to understand why any Provincial Government will stand in the way of the building of the line in any unnecessary way, when it would be sure to result in the development of such vast interests and wealth to the province. The above company have evidently started out in their enterprise on a substantial basis. They have now half a mile of track graded at the site of the works, have excavated 2,500 yards for the foundation of the works, have 100,000 bricks on the ground and the timber of which the buildings will be constructed all hewed and expect to have the works in operation by the 1st of August this year. The capacity of the smelting furnace is 60 tons per day, but the sampling and roasting furnace as well as the steam power are of a capacity that will allow the smelting to be increased to 120 tons per day at a small cost. The ore will at first be reduced to base bullion at the works and sent to Swansea for refining. The lead will find a market in China and Japan. But as soon as practical a process will be adopted at the works for separating the greater part of the lead from the precious metals, and shipping it direct from Revelstoke to the Pacific Ocean markets making as large saving in freight, the fine metals being still sent to Swansea for treatment.

Almost a Serious Accident.

[From Thursday's Daily.]

An accident which came near being a serious one occurred to No. 1 express this morning. Fortunately no person was much hurt. A cattle car had been placed on the switch at the cattle yards a mile and a half east of the C.P.R. station for the purpose of loading horses for shipment today. The freight car by some means was too near the end of the switch, whether it had been shoved there by mischievous hands is not known, but one end of the car was so far out towards the main line that when No. 1 express came alone the engine struck the empty car pitching it nearly as high as the telegraph wires. The engine was upset and thrown across the track and is pretty badly bruised up. The obstruction not being directly on the main line, it was not noticed as soon as would otherwise have been. But as soon as noticed the engineer done all he could to slow the train, when nothing more could be done, both engineer and fireman jumped and saved themselves without any severe injury. As soon as could be, word was brought up to Calgary station and a dispatch sent to the shops at Canmore. An engine and wrecking car and men were sent down. A track was soon laid round the debris and the express coaches brought up to the station. The total loss of time being about 7 hours. The train left Calgary for the west about 9 o'clock a.m., and quite a number of people who held excursion tickets Banff went up by it.

A Reporter's Experience With Some "Doubting Thomases."

[From Friday's Daily.]

A HERALD reporter went to meet No. one express from the East, expecting there would be some excursionists on the train for Calgary, and so there were. Several of whom went off to the hotels or with friends, but noticing that there were seven men who did not leave the station, he began talking to them and found that they had made up their minds to go back by No. 2 express the same morning at 3:20 o'clock. This the reporter tried to dissuade them from doing, plying all the arguments he could think of to have them remain, if but one day. He told them he did not want to sell them any lots or patent inventions, had no interest in any of the hotels or livery stables, that the corporation had made arrangements to send all visitors from the East out to see the country with teams, free of charge, and that there would be teams on hand to take 100 of them out at eight o'clock, and they would not even have to set up the drinks. He went over into town at two a.m. and hustled up samples of last year's wheat, oats and barley and told them of the growth this year. He continued his lecture from the coming in of No. 1 express till No. 2 hove in sight, two hours and fifteen minutes, when five of the gentlemen capitulated. One more was almost persuaded to be a Calgarian, but finally concluded to wait for a more convenient season. The seventh man showed no signs of surrendering, he was going back, and nothing would change his determination. Had one of the Angels from Edmonton, Red Deer or Macleod been there, they could not have moved his strong heart. When asked his reason for not staying at least one day after coming so far, he said: "Well, I understand you don't have any rain here, and it freezes most all the time, and there ain't no land to be had nearer than twenty miles, the grass is all dried up, and who wants to shut themselves up for fifty years so far as that from town, and I am going back, and so he did. If he had been compelled to stand out all the next night in the rain, bare headed, he might have got cured of one crank notion. Or if he had to work in a field some days with the heat 88 in the shade and 110 in the sun, he might think it did thaw out some times. We know who he is and that he is well off, we will only say he hails from London, Ontario. The asylum there must be full. The old fool, talk about being locked up for fifty years. What was London fifty years ago, or the County of Middlesex either? The only thing it had then that Calgary district has not now, was Walnut timber, which sold at six dollars per thousand feet. Calgary has resources, soil and climate such as Middlesex never had.

Well, let us see what became of the other five. They remained, went out into the country, saw it and were delighted. They attended the meeting at the Opera House, and getting their eyes on the reporter that had belabored them in the morning, came up frankly like honest men, thanked him for advising them to stay. Next day they called at the Herald office and got papers mailed to many of their friends in Ontario, saying this is too good a country for the people of Ontario to remain in ignorance about. Having seen the substantial and beautiful they are now off on J. D. Moulton's excursion to Banff to see the picturesque, grand and majestic.

An enthusiastic meeting was held in the Opera House last night, with Mr. Rowe in the chair and Mr. T. B. Braden as secretary. When the excursionist who had been taken out by the people of Calgary yesterday to various points in the surrounding country, expressed their views and convictions as to what they had seen during a few hours travel. Several old pioneers were also present from points 200 to 350 miles apart, yet all within Alberta who gave useful words of information, the result of a few years experience to the visitors.
Prominent amongst those were the Rev. Mr. Long of Edmonton. This gentleman told of the rich soil, pure water, temperate climate, unlimited coal, immense crops, sufficient wood &c., of that district.
He gave a statement of the cost of coal for running three stoves all last winter in his house which he said was an old and rather shaky log building. It just took 13 tons at $3 per ton or about $40 to keep the 3 stoves running all winter. He gave the facts about the quantity of grain grown on different farms. One instance he said could be proven beyond a doubt where 600 bushels of oats had been raised on five acres of land. He gave several cases where large quantities of barley and wheat had been produced. But summed up on this point with the statement that 40 bushels of wheat, 80 bushels of oats, 55 bushels of white barley and 75 bushels of black barley
were a common average, with peas and vegetables in proportion. As to the climate, the altitude of Edmonton being 700 feet lower than Calgary, it was not proportionately colder than Calgary for the distance it is north. Last winter the mercury did not go lower than 49, and though two feet of snow was not uncommon, last winter they had none at all. He read from the Hamilton Spectator the government weather report for Edmonton, proving the general moderate character of that climate as compared with 11 places
in the Northwest from which the government meteorological reports had been published in the "Bulletin." Edmonton had a record he was not ashamed of and our Ontario friends need not be afraid to face,
and as for blizzards they were unknown in Edmonton.

The gentlemen who had been out in the country during the day, were asked to give their views of what they had seen during their trip. We might here say, to save space in repeating names of places,
that the distances our friends went out
are from 15 to 30 miles, and include High river, Sheep, Pine and Fish creeks and the Elbow river settlements.

Mr. Elms, of Princeton, County of Oxford, Ont., was one of the first to speak. He went into a short review of the trip from the East to Calgary, and their experience since arriving here, and was quite graphic in his description of the way they had been badgered along the line to stop
first at one place and then at another,
each town claiming that theirs was the best place in the West. There was only one thing on which they all told the same story, namely, that it was no use to come to "Frozen Alberta." At Winnipeg they said it was the best place in the world and if he went further he would be beyond the pale of civilization. At the Portage new chairs were added to the situation; but
at Brandon they were made prisoners.
The car was shunted and left over with out their consent. He had never to say that the Brandonites were very good to their prisoners, as they drove them out and showed them a very fine country.
Along the whole line they were best to abandon the visit to Calgary, and indeed it was only the strong minded amongst them that had weathered through the suffering and reached this place. Then as to how he had been treated here. He must first say a word about his experience
in being received elsewhere in the world.
I was born, said he, in good old Buckingham, England. When a child, he had been nursed by Her Most Gracious Majesty.
He had been courteously received at the Court of St. James and the White House at Washington. But for an honest, frank, open-handed reception, it had remained for the people of Calgary to out-do anything he had met in his life. As to the country here, judging as a practical man from what he had seen, it could not be surpassed within the wide circle of civilization
as a place for farmers to settle in.
The growing crops, the sample of last year's grain, the pure and abundant water, the coal, the building and line
stone, the records of the weather, all went to prove that this section must in the near future become a network of railways and be filled up with hundreds of thousands of happy and prosperous people.

Mr. P. D. McEae, of St. Elmo, Ont., was called on and gave a short pointed statement of what he had seen since his arrival, giving it as his unqualified opinion that the country was a most excellent one, in fact that it had no equal in the sections of country open for settlement in Canada. He for one was glad he had not listened to the nonsense of land sharks in Manitoba, but had come on here, had seen

for himself and was satisfied.

Mr. Edward Burke, of Brouville, County of Grenville, Ont., next spoke. He too testified to the hospitality of the Calgary people, and said that in his drive yesterday he had been astonished at the splendid growing crops and superior samples of last year's grain shown him by the farmers.
We have not space for all Mr. Burke said, but he wound up by stating that he would tell them in his country in the words of Horace Greely, "Young man go west," adding only two words, "To Alberta."

Several other Eastern farmers also spoke. They were a unit as to their impressions of the country.

Most able addresses were delivered by Rev. Leo Gaetz and Rev. Dr. McLean, worthy of being engraved with a pen of iron on plates of brass. Good speeches were made by R. A. James, James Reilly and others. To all of these we must apologize for not publishing them for want of room, though we had taken full notes
in hope of being able to do so.

Mr. Elms, in a neat speech, moved a most hearty vote of thanks to the people of Calgary for the great kindness shown the people from the East. The motion was seconded by Mr. Burke and carried.

Councillor Fitzgerald was called on to reply, which he did in a neat speech, chuck full of patriotism. Closing by saying we had only done our duty and are prepared to do it again.

Arrangements were then made for the movements of the visitors today, and so closed a large and enthusiastic meeting.

To Destroy Grasshoppers.

One of the most effective methods of exterminating grasshoppers, is to dig a trench on the side of the field toward which the army of grasshoppers is traveling, 13 or 16 inches deep and a foot wide.
Sink holes four feet deep every 20 feet
along the bottom. The young hoppers fall into the ditch, and not being able to crawl up the sides, they travel along the bottom and fall into the holes. When the hole is full put a shovel of dirt on top and that ends the existence of some hundreds of thousands of young hoppers. As the holes fill up bore more.

Our Schools.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Rev. John McLean, Ph.D., of the Board of Education, who is now in Calgary,
made a visit in company with Inspector Blair to the different rooms of our public school yesterday forenoon. We understand Dr. McLean expresses himself as well pleased with his visit. The workings of this branch of the public service
do not often come before us, yet the indications are that our educational interests are being well looked after, and their importance correctly estimated.

The Fashionable Wood of the Season.

Oak finished antique will be as much
used as ever in the manufacture of furniture next year. It is the most popular of all the woods, and the demand for it is steady, and no signs of a change in popular favor are apparent. Walnut is nowhere in the race with oak for popularity, and furniture of all materials, especially boudoir, and dining room, the wardrooms unequalled in demand. Mahogany is also ways was and will be in demand,
and cherry takes a good
stands first in favor and will continue in the front rank for another year at least, and probably much longer, as there is nothing to take its place. For the cheaper grades of furniture, ash, maple, birch, and these woods, with various stains and finishes, continue, as they always will, in favor.

THE WEEK'S LOCAL NEWS

Wednesday.

Heavy fires are raging in the mountains, this side of Palliser station.

Captain McIlree, N. W. M. P., went west by No. 1 express this morning.

Excursionists to the number of fifty or more took long drives through the farming country around Calgary yesterday.

At the race between Firman's horse and Harkaway, on the Riverside track yesterday afternoon for $500, Firman's horse won by three seconds.

Major Hatton is in town to-day, having just come in from the south country, where he says there will be lots of fat cattle to ship this season.

Veterinary Surgeon Bland, N. W. M. P., left for Toronto by No. 2 express this morning, having received intelligence that his father is very ill at that city.

Another instalment of Ontario excursionists numbering twenty-five, arrived by No. one express this morning. They are besieging the Government and C. P. R. land offices, asking information about locations.

Say Jones, what do you suppose is the reason they have such heavy frosts in Manitoba? Well, Smith, I don't know, unless it is a judgment on them for telling such lying stories about frost and snow in Alberta.

Mr. Feehan, C. P. R. station agent here, has received instructions from head quarters that a daylight train will be run from Calgary to Banff, leaving here at 9 a. m. to-morrow, (Thursday morning.) Fare for the round trip $4, good to return on any regular train within ten days.

The Rev. Mr. Fozeland, one of the excursionists from Rosemeath, Ont., was taken out by the Rev. G. Jacques to Mr. Livingstone's, the Sarnia Reserve, Mr. Bebeau's, Mr. Shaw's and other places to see the country, the crops, etc., and he is delighted with the appearance of the country as far as he saw it, and is anxious to get an appointment as a Methodist Minister in the Alberta district, he having been transferred from the Bay of Quinte Conference to the Manitoba Conference. He has two or three sons, for whom he wishes to secure land in Alberta.

Thursday.

No. 2 express train from the west was delayed at Cochrane taking up men to assist at the smash at the Calgary cattle yards.

There are good hopes that the death of wives in Calgary will come to an end some time, as there were three fine healthy females started out on their earthly career in this town on one day, the 11th inst.

Mr. Elmes, of Princeton, Ont., who came to Calgary on the first excursion train, informed us that there will be 25 excursionists leave Princeton for Alberta on the third Ontario excursion train and that a large number of these will come to Calgary.

Although the country was not very dry, yet the farmers had begun to feel that they would like to see some rain to help on the root crops. This they got last night, as it commenced raining about 5 p. m. and continued through the night. This afternoon the sun is out and the air getting quite warm again.

Superintendent Niblock is in town to-day, as busy as a bee getting things straightened up at the stock yard, where the engine butted the freight car off the track.

A number of excursionists from Ingersoll Ont., went through to Banff this morning before last and stopped off at Calgary this morning. Arrangements were at once made and they have been driven out to see the country this afternoon.

W. C. Van Horn, president of the P. C. R. Company, is credited with having told a gentleman in Calgary when here the other day, that the first railway built from here to the north would be built by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Joseph Maw, agent at Calgary for the Massey Manufacturing Co., of Toronto, has just taken an order from Sir John, Lister Kaye for thirty Toronto Light Binders, twelve thousand pounds of binding twine and six twelve horse power Massey Sawyer threshers. This order is to be filled for this season's work, and is probably the largest order ever given in Calgary for farming implements at one time.

The special excursion train for Banff, which was to have left at nine o'clock did not pull out till noon. The delay was caused by the derangement of trains through the slight accident at the cattle yards this morning. There were fifty persons that availed themselves of the cheap rate. There is no doubt there would have been double that number if the weather had been fine, but the heavy rain of last night and damp cloudy weather this morning made it very uninviting for sight seeing.

Friday.

Supt. McIlree, N. W. M. P., returned from Banff by No. 2 express this morning.

Mr. W. H. Cushing who has been away on a trip to the Coast, returned to town this morning.

Sen. Surgeon Jukes, M. D. of the N. W. M. P., arrived by No. one express from Regina this morning.

Excursionists continue to arrive from Ontario, quite a number having come in by this morning's express.

Mr. H. B. Andrews went east this morning. It is understood he went to Montreal to purchase a stock of dry goods.

Mayor Marsh and Mrs. Marsh went east by No. 2 express to Maple Creek, where they will remain for a few days. During His Worship's absence Councillor King will be acting mayor.

Tomorrow being the day set for the match between the ball club and cricketers, it is to be expected that a good team should be put on to compete with the cricket club, so all players who wish to see the game for Saturday a success, should turn out tonight for practice from which will be selected the best available team to represent the base ball club.

The passengers by excursion train to Banff yesterday got the full worth of their money. They left here at one p. m. and reached Banff at 8:45 giving ample time to study the architecture of the giant mounds that compass the entrance to the mountains. The train was far too heavy for one engine.

Mr. Hector Cowan, barrister, of Paisley, Ont., and Mrs. Cowan, arrived by No. 1 express this morning and are stopping at the Royal Hotel. They have come out to this health giving climate on account of Mrs. Cowan's health, and will remain for a few weeks. Should it prove as beneficial to Mrs. Cowan's health as it has to many others, Mr. Cowan will probably settle down in business here.

It is expected that a grand regatta and trout fishing tournament will take place at Devil's Lake, Banff, on Dominion day (Monday, July 1st), and that the regatta may be continued for two or three days. A committee of arrangements has been organized at Banff. General Supt. Whyte, of the C. P. R., spoke favorably of giving excursion rates from different points when he was at Banff the other day. As soon as arrangements are completed we will give full particulars.

We had a call yesterday from Mr. England, Jr., of the firm of Israel England & Sons, Tanners and Manufacturers of all sorts of leather common to the trade. The headquarters of the firm are at Knowlton, in the Province of Quebec, where they have carried on business for a long time. The object of Mr. England's visit is to see where a real good opening can be found in the west for a tannery business. Calgary, he admits, is the place for all reasons except that hemlock bark is same distance from here. He thought some of starting business in the Selkirk where the bark grows. It was pointed out to him that the great advantage of having his business in a business centre, instead of hut up in the mountains would far more than compensate for the difference of freight between bringing the hides to the bark or taking the bark to the hides. The bark of the Selkirk is one third lighter in proportion to its strength than the bark of Quebec and Ontario. He promises after examining the bark and situation to return to Calgary and look further into the matter.

Saturday.

Dr. Jukes, senior surgeon of the N. W. M. P., left Calgary this morning by express train for the west.

Messrs. Hull & Trowce received a car load of fat hogs from Manitoba this morning for their local meat trade.

Most of the excursionists who went to Banff the day before yesterday returned by No. 2 express this morning.

Several more Ontario excursionists who passed through Calgary direct to Banff, came down this morning and are going out to see the country today.

L. P. Wadsworth, inspector of Indian agencies, having completed his inspection in this district, went East by this morning's express train. He will go to Regina and equip his overland outfit and start at once on his summer's work at the outlying agencies.

Four representative men from Morris and Gretas, Mennoit settlements in Manitoba, whose names are Cornelius Striemer, Peter Gerbrandt, Fred Vol and Gerhardt Rempel, arrived in Calgary this morning with the object of looking up a district where they can locate 200 families. This would require all the government land in at least six townships. Mr. Bouchere of the Calgary government land office, knows these gentlemen well and says they are well off and trusted men of those settlements and undoubtedly mean business. They have procured rigs and driven out in the direction of the Little Bow river, where the required amount of land can be had, without any settlers now on it.

Monday.

Dr. N. J. Lindsay went up to Cochrane on professional business by No. one express this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Davis returned from their trip to the East by No. one express on Sunday morning.

Mr. Milton Connell and wife of Prescott Ont., are amongst the late arrivals from that province, and are registered at the Palace Hotel.

A. E. Shelton, J. P., of Calgary, has been appointed a coroner in and for the Northwest Territories. His appointment dates from the 17th of May, 1899.

Mr. Frank Tyrrell, barrister of Morrisburg, arrived at Calgary by No. one express on Sunday morning, and is registered at the Palace Hotel.

Another lot of excursionists arrived from Ontario on Sunday morning. Out of the 57 ticketed for Calgary, 40 have come in. The others will doubtless follow in a day or two.

Dr. Sinclair, of Toronto, specialist for diseases of women and nervous diseases, will be at the Royal Hotel, Calgary, for one week. Consultation from 3 to 6 p. m. Consultation free. 143-147

When a light wind sprung up from the west yesterday afternoon the town soon became enveloped in smoke from the fires in the mountains, so that it was dark enough for artificial light three hours before the usual time.

Mr. J. D. Molison, manager of Sir John Lester Kaye's farms, returned to Calgary after a long trip of inspection. He states that the crops are generally looking very fine and that in many cases they equal anything he ever saw.

Mrs. Parrish returned this morning from Toronto. During her trip of several weeks she visited friends in various parts of Ontario and says that she is more than ever convinced that Calgary has the most desirable climate to live in any place in Canada.

Mr. John Allan, of Newmarket, County of York, Ont., is in town, registered at the Palace Hotel. This gentleman has been connected with milling in that fine old, rich section of Canada for some time, and is here now to investigate the situation and chances for commencing milling operations at Calgary.

Mr. Robert Kerr, General Passenger Agent of the C. P. R. for the Western and Pacific Divisions, arrived from Winnipeg this morning and gave the Herald a call. Mr. Kerr has been busy all day interviewing the business men of Calgary. He says the C. P. R. already consider the Ontario excursionists to Calgary a success, but had the weather been at all favorable for travelling when the excursionists of the 11th left the east, there would have been many more avail themselves of it. By advice from their stations in Ontario they expect the excursion leaving Toronto tomorrow will be the largest of the lot.

Yesterday when a party named Thomas Schroder was fishing in the Bow River on Odlin's ranch, at Keith station, which is about ten miles west of Calgary, he discovered what appeared to be the body of a man floating in the river and lodged against a rock. He went near it and found that it was in a very advanced state of decomposition, so that the features were not recognizable. Mr. Schroder gave notice to Chief Dillabough of the finding of the body and he notified Coroner Shelton. It is generally supposed that the body is that of one of the two Eau Claire Co's. men that were not found when the six men were drowned last summer near Morley. The Eau Claire Company have sent up one of their men who knew those who were drowned and the kind of clothing they wore. The Mounted Police sent up a team and wagon with men to look after the case.

Tuesday.

Dr. Geo. F. Orton, of Winnipeg, returned to that city by No. 2 express this morning.

Mr. P. A. Prince, manager of the Eau Claire and Bow River Lumber Company, is at present up the river superintending their spring drive of logs.

Mr. Robert Kerr, general passenger agent of the C. P. R., left Calgary by No. 1 express this morning for Banff. From there he will make a business trip to the Coast, returning to Winnipeg in a couple of weeks.

Any parties who may have left Montreal or other points in the provinces of Quebec by the second excursion train leaving there on the 13th, may arrive in Calgary to-night or to-morrow night.

Mr. Fred Stimson, manager of the Northwest Cattle Ranch Co., pulled out this morning with a four horse team for High River. He had a big wagon, loaded as high as a hay rack with supplies for the farm and ranch.

Mr. Thomas Rehl, who settled on a homestead near Shepherd last year about 9 miles east of Calgary, is in town today and informs us that 13 locations have been taken up in his neighborhood this season, and those are chiefly taken by Ontario farmers, who came here on the C. P. R. late cheap excursions.

The party of N. W. M. P. who went up to Keith yesterday afternoon to look after the body that was discovered in the Bow river on Sunday, did not find it. It appears that nothing was done to fasten it by the parties that found it, and it may possibly have floated away. The police went up again to-day to make further search.

Melville D. Landon alias Eli Perkins and Mrs. Landon went east by No. 2 express. They intend going to Regina before stopping "Eli" will lecture at the Capital of the Northwest, after which he will proceed to Dakota where they hatch out original jokes, cyclones and grass hoppers, and replenish his stock of those articles so necessary to a public caterer.

Dr. E. H. Stafford, a son of the Rev. Dr. Stafford, of Toronto, after some months spent in the New York hospitals, where he entered upon a careful study of the latest methods of treatment of disease, has just settled in Calgary and has opened an office over McBride's hardware store on Stephen avenue. Dr. Stafford is thoroughly pleased with Calgary and the Northwest, and proposes bringing his wife and family out as soon as possible.

Eli Perkins is so much pleased with this country, the C. P. R., the Mountain scenery, the town of Calgary and what he saw of the surrounding country, that he says he will write it up and talk it up in the East. He says he has got something "new" to talk about by coming here that is neither a paradox, a joke, a sarcasm nor a deformed truth, but a new realistic world to tell "Down Easters" about.

Eli Perkins and wife were out for a drive yesterday afternoon with Mr. A. D. Braithwaite, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and Mr. Fred Stimson. They visited Major Walker's garden and farm. They also drove down to Mr. J. D. Geddes' farm, then up from the Bow river valley to the Elbow River high land and back to town. Unfortunately it was a little smoky, so the views of the landscape and Rockies in the distance were not as good as if it had been clear, however they expressed themselves as delighted with the vast expanse of beautiful rolling country, dotted here and there with grain fields and gardens, proving as conclusively as Perkins could, the difference between a joke and a sarcasm, that the soil and climate are such as will make this one of the richest producing districts in the world, in the near future.

The C. P. R. company have decided to run a special excursion train from Calgary to Banff on Saturday, the 29th of June. The fare for the round trip will be $4 good to return within ten days. Mr. Kerr informed the Herald last night before leaving for Banff, that he would try and get special rates at the hotels at Banff for those holding those special tickets. If he succeeds he will make it known through this paper.

Two young men of Almonte, Ontario, are at a premium. The name of one is Frank Walker and the other Arctic Greig. They are both about nineteen years of age. Warrants have been issued for them. The first is a telegraph operator and base ball player, the latter is musician and plays the cornet. A reward will be given for their arrest. Further particulars can be had from chief of police Dillabough, Calgary.
